

Student Transportation Inc. Honors Employees for Emergency Response

WALL, N.J., April 13, 2017 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Student Transportation Inc. (STI) (TSX:STB) (NASDAQ:STB), an industry leader in safety and North America's largest independent provider of student transportation services, honored dozens of employees at its subsidiary, Student Transportation of America (STA), in its Grand Junction, Colorado terminal for their emergency response during a recent bomb threat at a local high school in Mesa County Valley School District 51. Upon being notified of the threat and possibly dangerous situation, 23 of STA's drivers responded during their break between routes, alongside four mechanics and seven other staff members who jumped into action within minutes to help the school during this emergency and evacuate students to safety at a neighboring school.

"A call to action occurred and within minutes we had 31 buses on site at a period of time in the day when our drivers were in between routes," stated Shane Anderson, Operations Manager of STA in Grand Junction. "Our drivers and staff reacted so swiftly with little direction, I could not be more proud to have the opportunity and honor to be their leader. This event stands as a true testament to the professionals we have working and representing the STA Family with pride, respect and dignity. Truly a recognition of the great work we are doing here in Grand Junction and an example of our unsung heroes' abilities to transport some of the world's most precious cargo."

Members of the local community expressed their appreciation of the heroics of STA's Grand Junction team. Phil Onofrio, Chief Operating Officer of Mesa County Valley School District 51, stated, "Outstanding! We could not be happier with the performance and handling of this situation." Added Tim Leon, Fruita Police Department Reserve Police Officer and District 51 Security Supervisor, "Thank you! What another shining example of our great partnership and STA's dedication to our students and communities. We made the right decision in contracting with STA."

The STA Grand Junction team was recognized at a ceremony where they were given 'hero' pins and certificates from STI's Chairman and CEO, Denis Gallagher, recognizing their heroic acts. "We have a very special STI Family throughout North America who I am proud to work for," stated Gallagher. "Our folks in Grand Junction are no exception and they rose to the occasion during an emergency situation and did an amazing job." Members of the Grand Junction team recognized are:
